A Happy New Year

I find that many Auxiliary members are not exactly sure what it is the DIRAUX does. No, I'm not the DCO's boss although we work together closely to better perform our duties. Generally, my job is to act as the Auxiliary program manager within the district with responsibility for administering and promoting the Auxiliary. I supervise the Auxiliary by insuring compliance with instructions, directives, and statutory requirements governing Auxiliary programs. I advise on matters of program activities and policy, and encourage a uniformity of standards. I am a voting member of the District Board along with the DCO, IPDCO, VCO, RCOs, and Division Captains. Specific DIRAUX responsibilities include: member enrollments, transfers, and disenrollments; training certifications; acceptance of operational facilities; establishing new units; financial management of appropriations and issuance of orders; issuance of identification cards; administering specialty course tests; approval of Auxiliary publications; approval of DSO appointments; processing of all Auxiliary award recommendations; and one of the most time consuming responsibilities, maintaining a system of Auxiliary program record keeping including individual member and property records.

So how do I accomplish all this? I utilize the talents of my wonderful staff. I guess this brings us back to the original question... What exactly does the DIRAUX do?
